

THE DISASTER DIARIES

OF RHYANE JANE

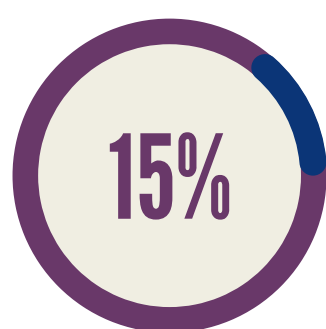

We asked public health undergraduates some questions before and after engaging with the series...

BEFORE AFTER

THESE STUDENTS WERE...

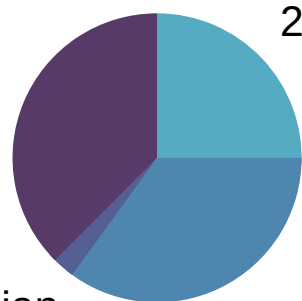

31%

68%

Hispanic/Latino

Other
37.5%

THEY HAD OTHER EXPOSURE TO DISASTER PREPAREDNESS BEFORE THE SERIES. ◀

The % of students that felt that a natural or man-made disaster in their community...

WOULD BE SEVERE

89%

81%

IS LIKELY

30%

86%

The % of students that felt that getting prepared for a natural or man-made disaster...

IS IMPORTANT/INTERESTING

51%

50%

WILL MAKE A DIFFERENCE

95%

97%

Students were already aware of preparedness and the potential severity of a disaster. Some were already getting prepared.

Significantly more students felt that their community was at risk of a disaster after engaging with the series.

Even before engaging with the series, most students felt that preparing would make a difference in how they handle a disaster.